As a customer, I want to understand quickly the goals of the website

In the About page, I can quickly understand the aim of the website by reading the 3 pillars of the website:

- What the creator of the website believes in
- What the website does
- What the user can do as a part of the community

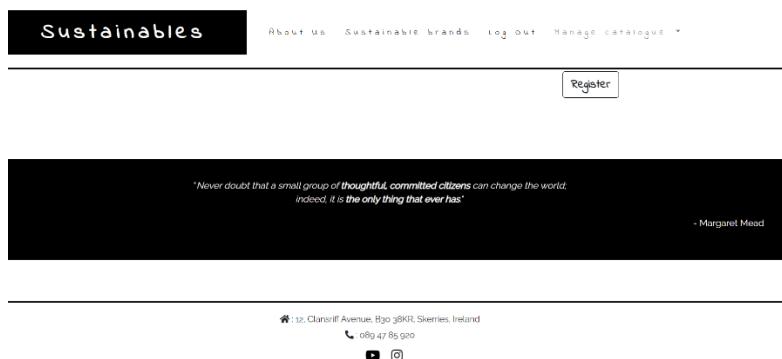

Design: I decided, for all type of devices, to add a sliding-in effect on the page while the user scrolls down to add some interactivity to a mainly descriptive content.

Two buttons appears at the bottom of the page :

- By clicking on « Sustainable brands catalogue » the user discovers the current catalogue of sustainable brands
- By clicking on « Register » the user can register to add, edit & update the current catalogue

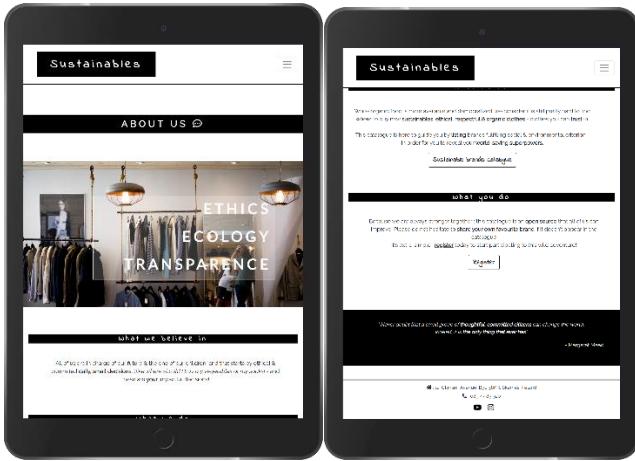

An inspirational quote appears at the end of the About page.

3. Sustainable brands catalogue (get_brands.html)

As a customer, I want to understand quickly the goals of the website

Any user, registered or not, can access the current catalogue by clicking on the option.

« Sustainable brands" in the navbar or, by clicking on the button at the bottom of the About page "Sustainable brands catalogue".

In this page, the user can access :

- A quick summary of which values the brands displayed need to respect
- A search bar appears after the main image to allow the user to research a specific brand inside the catalogue

In desktop version:

Grown

Fresh Cut Clothing

By sliding down the screen, brands appear slowly in the screen to add interactivity to the navigation.

As a customer, I want to get a synthetic overview of each brand, including their location, name, website & quick description

In the Sustainable brands page, all brands are displayed and each of them is quickly described by providing their:

- name of the brand
- location
- website: clicking on it would open a new page directing the user to the brand's website
- category: is this brand for men/women or for both? While most of them are for both sexes, it can be handy to get this information.
- description: the user adding the brand has to describe the brand in a few sentences explaining why he loves it & what the brand offers.

NB : When each brand is added by a user, these 5 catagories are required in order for the brand to be added to the catalogue.

The screenshot shows a web application interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the logo "Sustainables" and links for "About us", "Sustainable brands", "Log out", and "Manage catalogue". Below the navigation bar, there are two separate boxes representing different brands.

As a registered user, I want to be able to add new brands, and/or:

After registering, the "Manage catalogue" section (manage_brands.html) appears for the users in the navbar & the page is displayed to them.

The screenshot shows the Sustainable website's homepage. At the top, there is a dark header bar with the word "Sustainables" in white. Registered users can then add a brand by clicking on 1) the "Add a brand" button displayed inside the "Manage catalogue" page (2) by hovering over it, the button gets colourful):

The screenshot shows the "Manage catalogue" page. At the top, there is a dark header bar with the word "Sustainables" in white. Below it, a navigation bar includes links for "About us", "Sustainable brands", "Log out", and "Manage catalogue". The main content area has two sections: one asking if you want to share your favorite brand with a "Add a brand" button, and another asking if you want to edit your catalogue with a "Add a brand" button. The "Add a brand" button in the first section is standard, while the one in the second section is highlighted with a colorful gradient.

1)

Or by clicking on the dropdown "Manage catalogue" button of the navbar and choosing "Add a brand".

The screenshot shows the Sustainables website's navigation bar. The "Manage catalogue" button is highlighted with a dropdown menu open, showing options: "Edit your references" and "Add a brand".

At the bottom right of the form are two buttons: "Cancel" and "Confirm".

Every information is required as it provides useful information to users. Otherwise, a message appears requiring the user to complete the empty section :

The screenshot shows a modal dialog box on a website. At the top left is the word "Category". Below it is a dropdown menu set to "Men". At the top right of the modal are two buttons: "Cancel" and "Confirm". A tooltip-like message "Veuillez renseigner ce champ." with an exclamation mark icon is positioned above the "Confirm" button.
